Hi, Robert,

I'm working on a story about the growing number of consumer groups doing testing of foods to identify glyphosate in them.

I'm going to be mentioning that the EPA has raised the tolerance level for glyphosate in the environment after a request from Monsanto and its reasoning: Namely, that it has seen nothing to indicate that glyphosate has any impact on human health.

Is there anything else to say about it that's more up to date?

Many thanks, Stephanie
